HOW TO USE THE FAMILY TREE CHART

The chart consists of 550 columns. Each page has eight rows, labelled A to H. The top row, A, contains the names of the earliest forebears. The bottom row contains the names of the latest generation.

The name of each individual (with his/her spouse) is in its own column and row. By giving first the column number and then the row letter the name of a particular person may be found at once. This reference number is shown in square brackets, [], immediately after the name in the Index.

For example, the name of Nicole Wotton will be found in the index to be followed by the reference [10G]. As will be seen on the next page, her name appears in column 10 and in row G.

A further example: In the index the name of Helen Bradfield is followed by the number [323E]. Her name will be found in the column numbered 323 and in row E (see page 152).

ADDITIONS

Two blank pages (175- 176) are provided for insertion by individual owners of the book of further names and generations as and when needed.
